Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability;
citations and explanations supporting such statement

Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: US-A-4 987 828

D2: US-A-6 147 336

D3: US-A-4 565 704

The document D1 is regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 1, and shows (the references in parentheses applying to this document): a device (for making omelets), the device having plates of magnetic material and a conveyor (for transferring said plates linearly through the device from a position for supplying each plate with omelet batter to a position for removal of a finished omelet from the device), wherein at least two separately controllable induction heaters are positioned under the conveyor in two treatment stations.

The subject-matter of claim 1 differs from this known device in that at least one infrared heater is positioned above the conveyor.

The subject-matter of claim 1 is therefore new (Article 33(2) PCT).

The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as to provide an additional browning of the top of the omelets.

The solution to this problem proposed in claim 1 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) as it is not rendered obvious by any of the available prior art documents.

Claims 2-12 are dependent on claim 1 and as such also meet the requirements of the PCT with respect to novelty and inventive step.

The document D1 is also regarded as being the closest prior art to the subject-matter of claim 13, and shows (the references in parentheses applying to this document):

a method (for making omelets in a device according to one of the claims 1-12), in which plates are transferred linearly through the device from a position for supplying each plate with omelet batter to a position for removal of a finished omelet from the device, whereby primary coagulation of the omelet batter is performed by separately controllable induction heaters from below in at least two treatment stations.

The subject-matter of claim 13 differs from this known method in that browning of the top surface of the omelet is performed by infrared heating from above.

The subject-matter of claim 13 is therefore new (Article 33(2) PCT).

The problem to be solved by the present invention may be regarded as to provide a better foodstuff-preparing result.

The solution to this problem proposed in claim 13 of the present application is considered as involving an inventive step (Article 33(3) PCT) as it is not rendered obvious by any of the available prior art documents.

Re Item VII:

Contrary to the requirements of Rule 5.1(a)(ii) PCT, the relevant background art disclosed in the documents D1-D3 is not mentioned in the description, nor are these documents identified therein.

Although claims 1 and 13 are drafted in the two-part form the characterizing features (see above) are incorrectly placed in the characterising portion, as they are disclosed in document D1 in combination with the features placed in the preamble (Rule 6.3(b) PCT).

Re Item VIII:

The underlined passages in the wording of the claims (see above) should have been
